The Play Counter is full of WOW for young children: Loaded with play activities that will keep them playing. The scale is perfectly suited to the play of young children. The height of the openings and panels support e.g. the first steps, as the infant gets good grip support thanks to the holes and openings. The desk with opening supports social games such as peek-a-boo. These games stimulate children socially as well as cognitively as they begin to understand that people and objects still exist when out of sight. The sphere is bright and runs in a groove. When the young child uses it there is an understanding of cause and effect. As the sphere moves on both sides, children will discover theory of mind and that others may have other intentions than they do. This encourages cooperation and taking turns.

Two sides

Social-emotional: invites cooperation and communication. The low height and the transparency of the panel makes interaction possible between the two sides.

Play sphere

Social-emotional: can be played from both sides, encouraging cooperation.

Cognitive: cause and effect understanding.

Creative: leave a mark and place the spheres at different positions.

Desk

Social-emotional: fine meeting place and a space creator. Sharing and cooperation from both sides create a social scenario that supports communication and cooperation.

The overall framework applied for these factors is the Environmental Product Declaration (EPD), which quantifies "environmental information on the life cycle of a product and enable comparisons between products fulfilling the same function" (ISO, 2006). This follows the structure and applies a Life-Cycle Assessment approach to the entire Product stage from raw material through manufacturing (A1-A3))
