

PCM201100

Two towers with curved bridge, wood posts, plastic slide

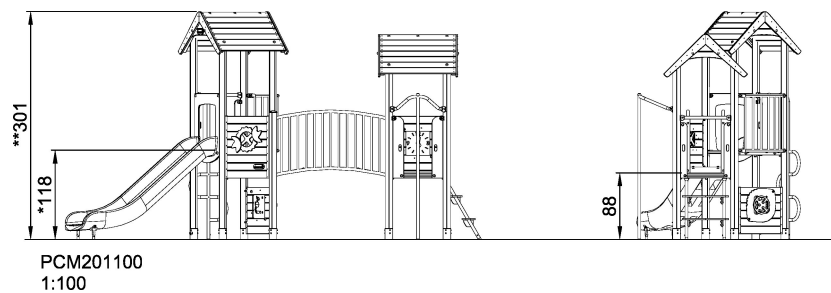

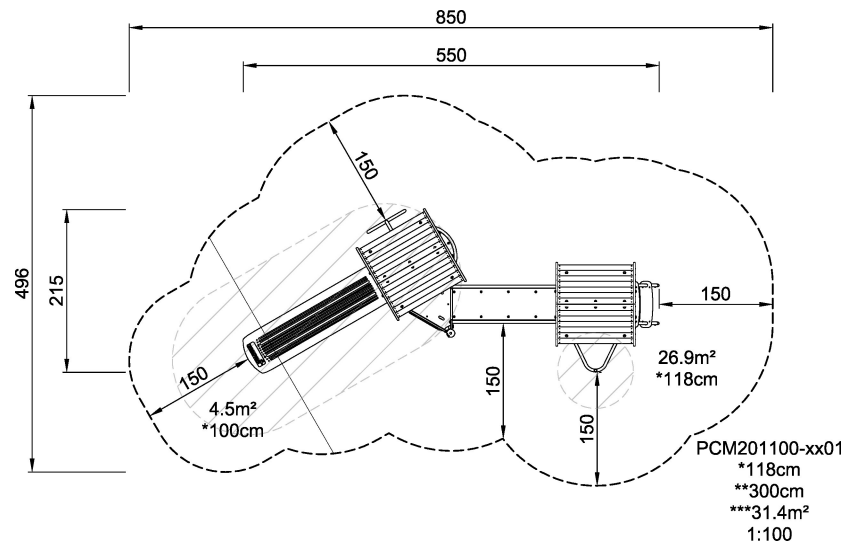

Besides the familiar play house theme this structure affords many opportunities for social interaction. The faces and time panel features a number of faces with different expressions that will support children's ability to register different feelings. On the other side of this panel is a clock with movable arms for learning how to read the time. The driving panel encourage dramatic play, and the numbered gear shift will help learn early numeracy.
